A WOMAN'S THOUGHT.

[Mrs. R. V. Wilson.]

"I am so weary of my home," she cried, "and of its endless tasks so mean and small. I long to mingle with the world outside. To drink from life's full cup the drops that fall."

From her room she came, though gently, and shook her head, her hands must hold the draught.

She took a little handkerchief into her hand, and in her hand a tender memory stirred. Of violet eyes with blue by death shut down.

And as she lifted the little handkerchief up, "I drink," she cried, "at least from love's full cup."

"Forgive, dear Lord, forgive the foolish speech. For love is all; without it, life is naught. Let me have the draught in my hand, and I will never complain of night or day. Without love's wine she will be thirsty still."

"And knowing this, how dare I dare to call, When love's love makes the humblest to divine. My daily prayer, dear Lord, and small! Oh! darling, press your warm, soft lips to mine. While I thank God that I at home abide, Nor envy dwellers in the world outside."

A MEXICAN KITCHEN.

The Cooking Department—How the Staff of Life is Prepared.

[Cor. Cleveland Herald.]

A Mexican kitchen is a study, and to do it and all its strange utensils justice would require a column's space. There are no stoves in Mexico, or even anything like the fire places of our grandmothers' days. One side of the room is occupied by a sort of shelf, built into the wall, about breast high, with an opening at the top which serves for a chimney. In the center of this shelf a little heap of wood is kept burning, and around it the various cooking-pots are placed. If the family is small, this smoky method is sometimes improved by building a charcoal fire in an earthen pot and putting the smaller cooking vessels within it. Many houses have a mud oven at the end of this shelf or somewhere out of doors, in which a fire must be built to toast it; but generally an oven is quite unnecessary as baked food—"pizzas," "tostitos," enters not into the household economy.

In the center of the kitchen stands the metate, for tortilla making—a half-circular stone—the size of an ordinary bread bowl, which has two legs about four inches high, one on each side, inclining it at an angle of forty-five degrees. The cook kneels upon the floor at the elevated end of the metate, and the corn having been previously boiled, and still quite wet, crushes it into paste with a kind of stone rolling-pin, the metate gradually sliding down the inclined plane into a dish placed to receive it. When a quantity has been thus crushed, it is rolled into balls and left until required. It is astonishing what an amount of corn a family will consume in a day, it being here the staple food, indispensable at every meal instead of bread. When dinner or supper is on the table, after everything else has been cooked, the last thing is to heat the griddle or a smooth plate stone. Then the cook takes a very small lump at once of this prepared corn paste, shapes it into thin, round cakes with the cold water, and much hand clapping of the hands, and bakes them brown in a jiffy. As a substitute for bread, one might get a great deal further and fare worse than subsist on tortillas.

The best chocolate I ever tasted is made in Mexico. No water enters into the composition, and while the well-sweetened milk is heating, they dissolve the chocolate in it by putting into the vessel a wooden implement called a molinillo, and whisking it rapidly between the hands till the whole is a mass of foam and richness.

Another thing which Mexican housewives particularly excel in is the compounding of delicious sweets or of allkinds. They make the clearest and whitest imaginable marmalade and jelly of apples, pineapples and other fruits, but do not indulge much in canned sweets, or preserves. Pickles, in which most Americans delight, are entirely unknown, the inevitable and eternal chili being sufficiently piquant.

The Palace of Alfonso.

[Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.]

I had business at the palace with Senator Abella, the secretary of the king, and my visit to this office afforded me an opportunity of seeing the palace. It is a large, quadrangular building of white marble, in the French-Italian style of the seventeenth century. The public offices look shabby, and the officials seedy. The halls and chambers of audience are sparsely though elegantly furnished, but are hung with many fine paintings. Most of the furniture is of French design and probably workmanship. None of the apartments were carpeted; some had large rugs in the center of the floor, others small rugs near the tables and sofas. The palace has a beautiful little almshouse in front and a spacious courtyard in the rear. In the latter a couple of regiments of troops were parading; the soldierly-looking men, smart, quick-stepping and alert, uniforms neat and clean, breeches bright and numerous, and bayonets fixed to the rifles. If Spain ever gets into row with France how these swarthy and rugged Spaniards would trample down the little, tight-waisted, chirping infants of the grande armee.

One Woman's Influence.

[Chicago Tribune.]

Walter Scott has left it upon record that had he not known Martin Elgerton, he would have never written the "Waverley" novels; and the death of "Outremer" has revealed that the great Russian novelist was inspired by the same woman to do for the Russian sort and his own what she did for the Irish peasant and his kindred.

Infamously.

[Chicago Tribune.]

What, for instance, can be more improper and infamously than to erect a building which is in no sense suggestive of its use? A dwelling house should be so constructed that by no possibility can it be mistaken for any thing else.

A Tribute of Respect.

Whitmore Grange, No. 985, Macon Co., Ill., Nov. 10, 1883, and removed from our midst Sister Isabel Merker, wife of our present lecturer, L. C. Merker, words fail to express the sorrow that filled our hearts when the above news reached us. Can it be possible that she whom we all loved is to be with us no more? She whose whole soul was filled with a deep-seated love for our cause.

Resolved, That in the death of Sister Merker, Whitmore Grange has lost a faithful and beloved sister, her husband a kind and loving wife, her children a devoted mother, and society a valued member.

Resolved, That to our bereaved brother and family we would extend our deepest sympathy, and breathe for him the tender prayer that God's angels may help and guide him through the valley of extending sorrow. We would have him feel that the tender sympathy of the sisters and brothers of this Grange reach out after and clasp him in the strong chain of brotherly love.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved husband and family, and a copy be spread upon the records of the Grange, and also a copy sent for publication to each of the Decatur papers and the State Grange News.

Mrs. JESSIE GREEN, R. K. KIRBY, C. W. GIBBS, Committee.

Griggs' Glycerine Salve.

The best on earth, can truly be said of Griggs' Glycerine Salve, which is a sure cure for cuts, bruises, burns, scalds, wounds, and all other sores. Will positively cure piles, hemorrhoids, and all skin eruptions. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Only 25 cents. For sale by Dr. A. J. Storer, physician and druggist, 14 South side new square, Decatur, Ill., may 19-1887.

HENRY WARD BEECHER seems to think that the only particular in which he comes short in his laudable ambition to tread in the footsteps of his divine Master is that he has never yet been crucified between two thieves. After he shall have spoken to-night at Cooper Institute in favor of the destruction of all American industries that compete with those of Great Britain between two such notable characters as David A. Wells, the hired lobbyist of foreign trade, and Henri Watterson, a graduated rebel of the late slaveholders' war for free trade, any more identical form or mode of crucifixion between two thieves would be quite superfluous. Mr. Beecher's humane sagacity will ere long enable him to take a leading part in opening free soup-kitchens in New York, where a bone with slop will be distributed among those whose revenue reform is cutting off from their wages.—Inter-Ocean.

GRAND PIGEON SHOOT.

Nov. 20th, at Decatur.

Live pigeons and glass balls; 2 cash matches of $20 each. Class shooting, 10 per cent. to enter. Sweepstakes matches, Turkey and beef. Shot gun and rifle.

J. C. Ransom, agent for the Austin Powder Co., offers a quarter keg of Austin's Champion Ducking, No. 2, as a special prize to the best average shot at the shooting tournament Nov. 20.

The match by the Decatur Club for the fold medal and championship will be decided. Everybody cordially invited. Fair play and a good time. By order of the Shooting Club, G. B. Dwyer, Capt.

was sold yesterday to W. R. Beckmaster of the Pacific office, for $2,500. Mr. Pratt will vacate and take possession of his property on West Main street about December 15th.

CORNER HOUSES are being established in many places with great results. Let all who wish to benefit the community give their encouragement and patronage to the Lunch and Coffee Room, on the west side of North Main street, a few doors north of Pratt street, at the sign of the "W. C. T. U."

OWN your hard coal from F. D.
Childwell, P. O. Block.

The manufacturers of Dr. Price's Flavouring Extracts and Cream Baking Powder, with their large trade, wide reputation, and constantly increasing popularity, have too much at stake to put upon the market anything which has not been found to be not only harmless, but positively beneficial.

CUSTOMERS have endorsed it, and therefore renders it unnecessary to occupy much space in presenting the claims of the superiority of Price's & Co's flour.

April 10 date

The traveling public will please bear in mind, that the "Popular Frisco Railway" runs excursions every day at lowest rates to principal points in the West and Southwest, tickets good for 10 and 30 days. Call for tickets that will carry you over railroads running to St. Louis, Mo., and from there over the "Frisco Railway," to points of destination, and don't be misled by platform agents who treat to free hutches to induce passengers to buy tickets over other lines that will carry you in a round about way. For full information call upon or address George Lowery, agent, 139 Prairie street, opposite the postoffice, Decatur, Ill.

ORDER Decatur coal, lump and nut, from F. D. Childwell.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla works directly and promptly, to purify and enrich the blood, improve the appetite, strengthen the nerves, and brace up the system. It is in the truest sense an alterative medicine.
Every invalid should give it a trial.

St. Louis & San Francisco Railway.

General Passenger and Ticket Agents.

I take pleasure in announcing that we are now checking. FIFTEEN Hundred and Fifty pounds of baggage on each full ticket, and seventy-five pounds on each half ticket, of any class, to points on the Southern or Central Pacific railroads.

Please advise all parties interested, and oblige. Very Respectfully,

D. W. WILSON,

General Passenger Agent

Death of Marcus Cluke.

This forenoon at nine o'clock, Marcus Cluke a well-known colored citizen, died at his residence near the corner of West Eldorado and Edward streets. The deceased was aged 85 years, and leaves a widow and three little girls. Mr. Cluke, who was an employee of J. W. Brunsman & Bro., for a period of nine years, was a slave of Major Williams in Kentucky.
He was an officer and influential member of the African Methodist church, and also an honored member of the Decatur Lodge of Ancient York Masons. He was one of the best known members of our colored population, and was in every respect a worthy and exemplary citizen.

Return of "Scratch."

This forenoon John G. Imboden led his premium graded steer "Scratch," through the streets from the depot to Imboden Bros. market on South Main. Scratch's horns were decorated with four premium ribbons, three first and one second, and he proudly trotted the streets as he moved slowly but triumphantly to the premium shop. Mr. Imboden was compelled to stop at intervals on account of the number of people that crowded about the steer, all eager to see the steer that had vanquished his rivals at the fat stock show at Chicago. He is a big, fat and handsome steer, and has done Decatur great honor. Hurrah for John and Scratch.

Stabbed in the Face.

A serious stabbing affray occurred yesterday between 12 and 1 o'clock near the second ward school building, and the boys engaged in the quarrel are pupils at the department in the school, over which Miss Foss presides. Eugene Jenks, son of Major Jenks, the patent right man, and John Rider, whose parents live in the north edge of the city, both aged 14 years, were the principal parties engaged in the melée. Jenks had been sent home during the forenoon by his teacher because of improper conduct in the school room by annoying Rider. The Jenks boy felt bad about his punishment, and after going home he returned to the school with the evident intention of "getting even" with the Rider boy. The boys met after school was dismissed and after the passage of a few words, Jenks received a stab in his face, the pen-knife blade cutting a gash nearly three inches long, and cutting clean through the cheek in one place. Dr. Watson attended the wounded boy. It is not likely that the Jenks boy or his parents will make complaint against the Rider lad. The matter has been investigated by Marshall Mason, who learned the facts as stated above.

Wedding Celebration.

The 20th or 21st wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Rose was most en-joyably celebrated last evening at their pleasant home at No. 1004 East North street. The couple are members of Stapp's Chapel, and Mr. Rose is forman of the Walnut shops. A large number of their friends were present. The gifts included a china dinner set of 150 pieces, and various useful articles of silverware.
At a reasonable hour a beautiful supper was served.

Orator at Niantic.

Mr. H. A. Collier delivered his lecture on "The Emancipation of Labor" at Niantic last night before a large audience.
While there with the assistance of Brother Knights, John Dinsmore, J. M. Myers, Lewis Glendon, F. M. McClure, J. T.
Reynolds, F. W. Novins and Mr. Long.
Mr. Collier instituted "Exceller Assambly." The officers of this new society, which includes some of the best people of Niantic, are James M. Graham, M. W. A.
Corson, W. E. Pat McQuinn, B. S.; John Lehan, W. L. Frank Moore, F. S.; and G. D. Corson, W. T. The party partook of a fine supper at the Claypool Hotel.

The Minnie Madden combination was greeted by a large audience at the opera house last night when the very simply constructed play, "The Prisoner," was fairly well presented. Miss Madden assumed the role of the touring Puritan maid in Salem town. A fellow whom she refused to marry accused her of being a witch, and she and her lover would have been burned at the stake, but for the fortunate discovery of a "strawberry mark" on the arm of the young man. Then accused were withdrawn, and the curtain descended on the last act to show justice. The wreck scene was the principal feature of the evening. The acting of the members of the company was only moderately fair. Miss Madden's artless-ness and impulsiveness are what distinguish her from other actresses who play specialties, and her work and manner last evening gave manifest pleasure to her auditors.

MR. BURNS IN TOWN.

His Visit to Lincoln and His Reception
There Yesterday.

Mr. William H. Burns, about whom so many sensational reports were afloat yesterday in Decatur, Lincoln and other cities, arrived in town this forenoon from Lincoln. He was seen by a REPUBLICAN reporter to whom he stated that he went to Lincoln alone on business connected with the approaching trial of O. A. Carpenter for the murder of his daughter Zura. He says that quite a number of passengers went over to Lincoln on the same train with him but he knew none of them, and further he states that he has no intention of doing Carpenter harm for he believes that the courts will give him his just punishment, which he avers should be hanging. When Mr. B. arrived in Lincoln there was great excitement in the town, because the sensational report of his coming had preceded him. Carpenter had ascended himself and did not appear upon the streets, and the stories afloat were to the effect that Burns was coming over with 50 men from St. Elmo, 50 from Vandalia, 25 from Pana, and a large posse from Decatur, all armed to the teeth with repeating rifles.
But of course there was no foundation for all of this, and there was no trouble at Lincoln.

Mr. Burns will go south this evening and visit his sick wife at St. Elmo before going away again next week to assist the prosecution in looking up new evidence against Carpenter.

It is asserted that the theory of the defense in the O. A. Carpenter case, is that Zura Burns was murdered at Lincoln by a Decatur man for money who was supposed to have received from Carpenter, but no one hereabouts can or will tell what Decatur man is under surveillance. Mr. Morgan, the detective who is working in the interest of Mr. Carpenter, arrived here from Vandalia to-day. Two detectives for the prosecution have been nosing about Maron during the week.
Zura and her sister, Mrs. Dukos, used to live at Maron. This will be one of the most thoroughly investigated cases on record.

"All on Account of Eliza."

Martin Greengrove is in hard luck in his love affairs, and he is also in jail.
Some weeks ago Martin became enamored of a comely woman named Mrs. Lovejoy, to whom he paid marked attentions, and he claims, also paid out $80 in clean cash for apparel and shoes, which she accepted with thanks from her smitten friend. Suddenly Mrs. Lovejoy disappeared, at which Martin was not overjoyed. He sought for her in vain at the home of Mrs. East, on West Main street, and it was noticed that he grew paler and thinner each succeeding day. His evening visits at the East domicile in search of the missing woman were so frequent that the family grew tired of them, and when Martin threatened to kill Mrs. East if she did not tell him where he could find Mrs. L., it was deemed best to call in the officers of the law. Officers Brewer and Whistley laid in wait for the lover-lost and whisky-soaked Martin last evening, and near the East dwelling he was arrested and taken to jail. On his person was found a revolver. Martin will have a tough time of regaining his liberty if the parties concerned display any activity in prosecuting him. Disorderly conduct, carrying a concealed weapon, drunkenness, and threatening to kill, are among his offenses—"all on account of Eliza."

Died, Aged 81.

Joseph K. Krone, a brother of David Elijah and Daniel Krone, late residents of this county, died in Newburytown, York Co., Pa., on Sunday last, aged 81 years. He will doubtless be remembered by many of our citizens who came from that part of Pennsylvania, having been a well-known school teacher in that locality, and was probrother of York county for several terms.

Life's a Warfare.

All life is a strife and a struggle. Even Paul, looking back over the past, characterized life as a warfare, saying, "I have fought a good fight." And too often, while yet all the other battles of life are on our hands, are we called upon to war with some form of chronic disease. In this fight there is no greater champion than that kind and earnest lady, Doctor Keck. She is probably as well equipped for this fray as any who participate in it, and prepared to "fight a good fight." Her signal success has earned her a well-merited reputation for excellence, such as is but seldom attained by physicians, and rarely or never by women as such. Mrs.
Keck visits Decatur next week by appointment.

Temperance Meeting.

There will be a public temperance meeting at the Eldorado Hotel House, near the Union Depot, on next Tuesday evening, November 27th, at 7:30 o'clock.
Short addresses will be delivered.
The organization of a Lodge of Good Templars, to be located in the eastern part of the city, will be discussed.
The people of the Fifth ward and of the city generally are invited to attend.
Nov. 23-d4

PERSONAL MENTION.

Joe McClellan, of the circuit clerk's office, left for Chicago this noon.

Recevier and Mrs. D. H. Cookin arrived in the city last evening from Keokuk.

Peter Troutman, will arrive in the city in a few days from Kansas.

W. S. Ballard and family of Mechnaburg, are visiting J. B. Ballard.

Rev. Powers, of Springfield, will preach at the Universalist church to-morrow.

Mrs. F. B. Caldwell arrived in the city this morning from Lafayette. She will remain here for a few days.

Henry Watrous, of Hickory Point, went to Kansas last evening, over the route for which Tom Dwyane is local solicitor.

Z. Boughn, of Warrensburg, had business in Decatur yesterday, but he had no news to relate.

Mrs. Thorpe, of Pekin, who has been in the city visiting Mrs. Sutton, left for her home yesterday evening.

George Devine, father of Mr. Thomas Andrews, is dangerously ill. He is past 70 years of age.

Harry O. Lintner, of Richmond, Ind., was in the city to-day. Harry is looking quite well, and has gained 20 pounds since he left Decatur.

Dr. Leon Miesse, who will soon open his office in this city, paid us a call this morning and paid a year's subscription for the DAILY REPUBLICAN.

Sherrif Foster is expected to arrive home this afternoon from Indiana, whither he went with a requisition for Arnold, the horse thief.

Mrs. Dr. Rice, sister of Mrs. Col. Pugh and Mrs. J. R. Gorn, who is quite feeble, arrived in the city yesterday from Missouri after an absence of several months.

Gna Moulton, agent for Thatcher, Primrose & West's minstrels—here Friday night, the 30th, was at the St. Nicholas Hotel to-day.

Dr. L. W. Marshall will conduct a series of revival meetings at Lincoln, beginning some time in January. It will take some good preaching to save that town.

I. N. Martin spent most of the week at Springfield, with E. G. Tucker, attending the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Old-Follows. Both are members of Decatur Lodge, No. 65. Mr. Martin got home today. He was a guest of A. Nebinger while at the capital.

A. R. Arkle, formerly editor of the Decatur Tribune, has made another change in his calling. He is now giving his attention to the practice of law, and has an office at 142 Dearborn street, Chicago, with Leming & Thompson. Up to the present Arby has devoted most of his time in Chicago to the reportorial work.

INTERESTING revival services the past week at the Church of God. Meetings next week.
